

Auto Trend Software Guide

To start using the AutoTrend.ex4, copy the software to the Expert folder on your MT4 installation folder. The software only works on MT4 build 971. Please update your MT4 platform to build 971 if your MT4 platform is not build 971. If you are using any new update of MT4 platform that is higher than build 971, you can contact the software developer at autotrendsoftware@gmail.com .

The software only works on 5min, 15min, 30min, 1hour, 4hours and Daily timeframes.

When attaching the file to chart, double click on the Value options to select the starting bar period or shift position from the current bar on the chart towards the last bar on the chart, where the Auto Trend software will begin the analysis from. The EA complete its operation on initialization on chart. It does not automatically update the analysis, you have to re-attach it to chart or change the starting period to get a new analysis. The auto update feature was not added because it may change the existing analysis when it's still relevant to the trader or user of the software, so we prefer that the user or trader should determine the relevant analysis for their trading plans and objectives. Should you have any further questions please contact the software developer at autotrendsoftware@gmail.com and make sure you state clearly any details such like the email address, and name you submitted when purchasing the software. Technical support is only available to a buyer of the software.
